Am I about to get hit with OTIF penalties I can't see?

In 2025, 1,344 of 15,530 shipments (8.6%) had late ASNs. Walmart charges $25 per late-ASN PO under SQEP: 327 Walmart late ASNs = $8,175 in 2025. Other retailers' ASN fees are unknown and not counted. Worst account: Walmart at 9.7% late ASN rate. Scored Walmart's way (arrival by MABD, POs dated 2025), Walmart on-time is 97.6% against its 90% prepaid target (meets), and in-full is 86.2% against 95% (misses). The OTIF fine (3% of COGS on failing cases) is separate and not in this figure.

8.6% ASN late — $8,175 Walmart ASN fees (2025)

Key numbers

1,344 of 15,530	Late ASN shipments, 2025 8.6% of all shipments
$8,175	Walmart ASN fees, 2025 327 Walmart late ASNs × $25; other retailers excluded
95.7%	Shipped by requested date, 2025 All retailers, at the brand's dock. Walmart measures arrival: 97.6% on time, 86.2% in full

How this verdict was reached

Walmart ASN fees = Walmart late-ASN shipments in 2025 × $25 (Walmart SQEP Phase 1 flat fee per late-ASN PO; each late-ASN shipment counted as one PO). Other retailers' ASN fees are unknown and excluded. Fires when the all-retailer asn_sent_late rate > 5%. Walmart targets since 2024-02-01 (SPS Commerce; Walmart's own spec is in Retail Link): 90% on-time for prepaid, measured at arrival by MABD (requested ship date + 3 days); 98% ready for collect pickup; 95% in-full (every unit ordered was received). The data has no prepaid/collect flag, so prepaid is assumed. Walmart OTIF uses POs dated 2025; the OTIF fine is not dollarized. Window: calendar 2025, the same year used in q15. Late ASN = ASN arrived after ship date (asn_sent_late = true in fct_retailer_shipments).
